

Vexy and I Know It - Girl Powered

I decided that this word cloud is the best way to represent my experience on my VEX team. Its something different, and that is what VEX is for me. Participating in VEX is one of the best things that I have done. It's been absolutely amazing. I am able to see and drive something that I have built from scratch. I have spent over 50 hours with members of my VEX team to build this robot. This time we have spent together has not been easy. Every step of the way we have faced difficult and complex problems. None of us has built a robot before, so it's been strenuous. We have been dealing with every problem that we have had, one step at a time. I do have to admit that there has been some yelling that usually occurs when something doesn't work right, but once we build something that actually works, we scream with joy. It makes all of us fill with a feeling of accomplishment when this happens. I couldn't have asked for better teammates than Jason and Tanner to be by my side through all of this. By having them accept my ideas, and who I am, I have gain two new wonderful friendships that will last for a long time. We have been spending every friday night for 5 hours together to build our robot and we are finally there. Even though I am excited that we have finally created a working robot that we can compete with, I am sad that we will no longer have these long building sessions. The people that are apart of VEX, have changed who I am as a person. I am grateful for this. This might be sounding corny, but it is true. I have found a group of people that I can joke and mess around with, who also understand my love for engineering. If I did not make the decision to join this VEX team this year, I would have deeply regretted it. VEX will always be apart of me, no matter what.

Here is the list of words and phrases that I included into my word cloud. Some of them might not make any sense. That's because they have a special significance to our team that many will not understands. If you ask anyone else on our team, they would know exactly when, and who started or said it.
