

“From Paper to Puncher”

While some may crave the thrill of completion or the acclaim of victory, our team’s love for robotics stems from the joy of creation and the realization of our desires, aspirations, and designs. As our engineering notebook lies open, our team’s brainstorming and inventiveness are in sharp focus. This ingenuity casts a light into an otherwise shadowy canvas, showing not only the blurry vision of our idealized final robot, but also the preceding iterations fading into the darkness. This not only represents our team’s creative process, but also the design process that we hold in such high regard.
