

The minicomputer makes me feel like I'm a coder in a FBI mission trying to hack onto an enemy's computer service and save the world. Also since it's so "Fast" it makes it even better. Compared to today's technology it's like from the 1700's and is still super "Fast" according to me and my friends. The emotion that this thing gives me is mostly the frustration because it's super "Fast" and can make me want to very much smash it. Thank you for letting me compete in this competition I really appreciate it.

"Fast"= Slow