Humble Beginning

It all started with this mediocre laptop. Every block of code, every failure, every success. Many hours in total learning with the vexcode program. Some days were easy, some days were difficult. Some challenges were an easy, relaxed breeze, some challenges made me want to rip my eyes out. This screen is engraved with the memories of my code. This mouse is imbued with my direction and purpose for those blocks. My keyboard is caressed by my dutiful typing of numbers. From beginning to end, this laptop was, and is, my humble beginning.
