

Tournament Champion, first place in qualification rounds, and awards are the trophies that every single team has been longing for. However, to me, these are just transient amorphous fame. Through attending competitions, teamwork is required in every area. How we communicate, how we have multiple people with different ideas, how we assign jobs all demand a long time of hone. Similar to the green gears in the picture, every time we get together, we dispute, we collaborate, we are sharpening the surrounding of our gears. We are seeking the best teamwork where each gap between the gears totally fits together.