

This photo is me holding a big bag of raisins. At first glance, you would not be able to see any relation to Robotics. But, I'm known to bring just a huge bag of raisins (since I love raisins) to competitions and it's become somewhat of an inside joke now between my team members and other friends in the program. This reminds me of my experience of Robotics, trying to compete but at the same time, having fun and sharing moments with my friends and all the new people I met.
