

In this photo, I wanted to show the atmosphere of a competition. This was taken with a wide angle lens to show the full experience of these competitions. I chose to edit it to be more dramatic to emphasize the drastic change to this competition style while the bright colors (and increased exposure/brilliance) show how we can still find joy in these experiences. This photo reminds me of Vex because it shows the activity that I love and the family that my club has created along with how we are all able to persevere and continue this great activity.
