

Theme It Up!

The theme is a fight between the little people and climate change, water and fire.

The little people live in trees, but their village is threatened by climate change, as it causes wildfires to start in the village. The council of the little people meets to try to figure out what to do, the first councilman asks if they should evacuate the population, but another councilman answers that they have nowhere to go, outside of the village. So the decision is taken, they have to protect the trees. But how? That's when the old man of the village steps in and says "Then we have no choice, we must use the key passed down from our ancestors, the Vex little people, to open the secret door of the mountain." They open the door and discover... A robot! The little people are hopeful again, they are ready to give their all in this fight against the fire. Using the robot, they take out the fire and add water on the trees to save them.

Adapted rules/objects of the game :

Red balls = fire

Blue balls = water

Goal = tree/house

Field = village

Skills:

All the trees are on fire at the start, your goal is to take as much of the fire out and put as much water on the tree as possible to help them recover from the fire. If water is added on top of the fire, the structure of the tree is saved, and if a whole row of trees has water on top, then a whole street of the village is saved from total destruction.

Game:

The blue team represents the little people and the red team represents climate change. Climate change starts fires on the trees and evaporates the water. The little people take out the fire and add water on the trees to help them recover from the fire. If water is added on top of the fire, the structure of the tree is saved, and if a whole row of trees has water on top, then a whole street of the village is saved from total destruction, but if a whole row of trees has fire on top, then a whole street of the village is on fire.

The little people are in danger, climate change starts fires in their village. How will they stop the fires and save the village?
