

This part is a "Connector". It can be used to connect separate species together for a short time like if you are building something and you need to screw together 2 pieces and you need to hold it together you could use a connector. It also has other uses like connecting things at the last minute or seeing if any attachment works without having to do much work.

