

Title: Robotics, Today and Tomorrow

Description: the poster reflects on how Vex Robotics sets you for a future in robotics and how when you start you will learn robotics.

Design process: every good design has to have a good background and good words, every background also has very fun nice patterns that relates to the poster's main idea and also contribute to the sub ideas of the poster, that's why we went with a blue background with lightning like patterns to show the connection between robotics and electricity, that's it for the background .

Next up is the overall design we did a small robot and a girl and a boy to symbolize that today is just the beginning into Vex Robotics and that tomorrow (after some years) we will grow up and have the necessary skills to help the robotics world and we will be much more advanced in the robotics field and we will be able to build much bigger robots. We also included the name of the game tipping point then we also included the Vexmen logo to show that we are learning this because of Vexmen.