Our robotics team journey was enjoyable as we sought to solve problems outside of the box. Our posterboard shows the trip as it shows us solving issues together. This quote describes our team as we struggled during the journey, but the final product showed our team's hard work in this competition.

While creating our posterboard, we encountered quite a few problems, such as printing out pictures in color since we didn't have a color printer. To solve this problem, we constantly traveled between here and another location with a color printer to get our pictures—another problem we faced gaining all the supplies. We had to go to stores, wasting time and risking getting COVID-19, which would put our robotics team and our families at risk. Wasting this time caused us to delay the completion of our poster board, and we had to spend more of our time working on the poster board.

We gradually collected photos during all our practices, and then as our final result, we had about 400 pictures at our disposal. We decided we were not going to use all our photos, so we picked out the most important images of our journey and put them on our board with some decoration. As we finished the board, we were satisfied with our team's journey and loved our destination. Our team has worked hard on this poster board, so we, the Boyz Bot, hope you guys liked our poster board. Thank You.
