In my poster, I decided to focus both on the community aspect of robotics competitions (hence the high-five) and the problem-solving abilities one can learn by taking such courses. My poster primarily focuses on environmental problems, as those are both the easiest to illustrate visually and an important topic that evokes strong feelings in people. The use of different skin tones in the design emphasizes the inclusivity of robotics, as anyone from all skill levels, walks of life, ethnicity, race, or orientation can join competitions.
