Hamilton, Ontario,
Nebraska, and South Carolina

The story behind this photo is what makes NXS special. It looks like an ordinary team photo, but there is so much more. Our team is comprised of members from 2 countries. The furthest members live in Nebraska and South Carolina. For this picture, the two female members traveled to Canada for the weekend to competed in the Queen Robotics Cup. This was the first time the whole team has met in person.

Since we have so much distance it can be hard at times. We are not able to get together in person often- but that does not stop NXS from valuing everyone's ideas. Meeting the team in person, no one could guess the team spans such distance, other than the accents. We have all found that support, creativity, drive and passion are not limited to in-person relationships. We are beyond thankful for technology and the opportunity it has given us to form this independent team made of so many passionate members, who are thriving to make an impact in our communities. Although distance is not on our side, our shared love for robotics is.
